OpenAI Revenue Shortfall Hits AI and Chip Stocks

Technology and semiconductor shares sold off after OpenAI reported annualised revenue of about $50B, roughly $20B below expectations. The report deepened doubts over debt-funded AI infrastructure spending.

The Nasdaq fell 1.25% to 27,193, and the S&P 500 lost 0.47% to 7,765, while the Dow edged up 0.09% to 51,225. Oracle slid about 5.5%, Micron 4.8%, Broadcom 4.4%, AMD nearly 4% and Nvidia nearly 3%.

Fresh tanker attacks in the Persian Gulf and Strait of Hormuz, hurricane-related cuts to US output and reports that the Pentagon is preparing major strikes added to the crude rally - Brent oil rose above $103. Trump said he does not want an Iran deal, though crude eased after he said he would not attack before the midterms.

The 10-year yield eased to about 5.23% after strong demand at the 30-year auction. Fed officials Waller and Musalem signalled further hikes, with markets pricing in about 83% odds of a December hike versus 17.7% for October.

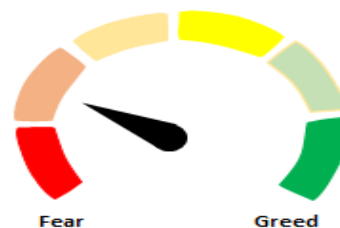

Trump administration announced a sweeping suspension of several massive tech and IT service giants from the Permanent Labour Certification (PERM) program—the essential employer-sponsored pathway used by H-1B holders to obtain a Green Card.

TCS's Q2FY27 performance signals a gradual improvement in growth momentum (+0.5% QoQ CC), led by its international business and accelerating AI adoption, even as macro remains unchanged and discretionary spending is muted.

The rupee ended with minor losses, depreciating 1 paise to close at 96.78. Pressure on the Indian rupee persisted, driven by rising crude oil prices and sustained FII outflows.

Nifty breached the previous swing-low support at 22,217 as well as the key April 2026 swing low of 22,182. The decisive breakdown of these levels indicates a further escalation in selling pressure and an intensification of the ongoing downtrend. The next support for the index is placed near 21,750, while 22,400 and 22,600 are likely to act as immediate resistance levels.

Indian equities are poised for a moderately higher open, on firm Asian cues.

Key Events

Japan household spending drops slightly less than expected in August

Japan's household spending shrank less than expected in August, but still fell for a ninth consecutive month as sticky inflation and mounting economic uncertainty weighed on private spending. Household spending declined 3.1% in August compared to the same month last year, according to data released by the internal affairs ministry .

European industry groups call for urgent EU action on China trade

Forty-four European industry associations urged EU members on Thursday to take immediate action to combat what they said were unfair Chinese trade practices threatening EU manufacturing and risking further job losses.

The call from the associations representing sectors including metals, chemicals and automotive parts comes a week before EU leaders convene in Brussels to discuss how best to tackle a growing trade deficit with China of more than €1 billion ($1.12 billion) a day.

US August wholesale inventories revised lower

US wholesale inventories increased less than initially thought in August as strong demand boosted sales, government data showed on Thursday.

Stocks at wholesalers rose by a downwardly revised 0.5%, the Commerce Department's Census Bureau said. Inventories, a key part of gross domestic product, were previously reported to have increased 0.7% in August. They surged 1.4% in July. Inventories advanced 6.4% on a year-over-year basis in August.

German government raises growth forecasts for 2026 and 2027

The German government has raised its economic forecasts for this year and next year, as the Iran war is not hurting the economy as much as feared, the economy ministry said on Thursday.

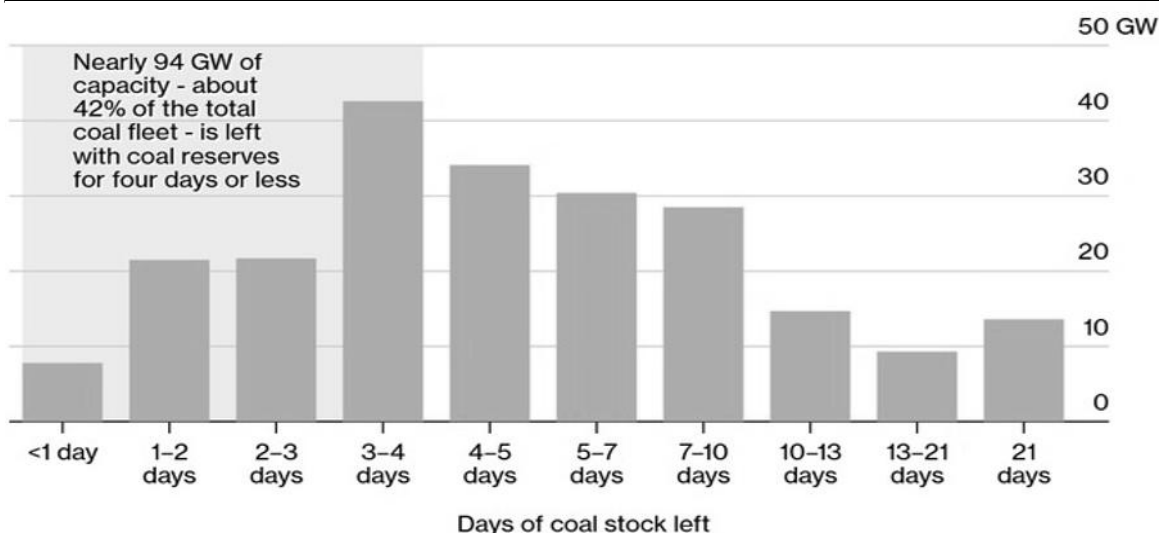

The government has raised the forecast for economic growth to 1.3% in 2026 and 1.1% in 2027, confirming the Reuters report on October 1. It expected 0.5% growth for 2026 and 0.9% for 2027 in its April forecasts.

Chart with Interesting Observations

India's Coal Grid Running on Fumes at Power Plants

- Nearly 94 GW of India's coal power capacity—a staggering 42% of the national fleet—is scraping bottom with 4 days or less of coal in reserve, per Central Electricity Authority data as of October 4, 2026. While a resilient cluster of plants holds a comfortable 21+ days of stockpiles (roughly 10–12 GW), rapidly dwindling inventory across the majority sparks serious blackout fears as sweltering late-season heatwaves and post-monsoon industrial surges push the grid to its absolute limit.
